American Sentinel launches new brand

On May 16, 2011 American Sentinel launched its updated brand look. The fresh, updated look features a new logo, new colors, new website and more! Our new branding also includes a new tagline, "Learning to Succeed," which embodies our mission to position students for success in their professional and civic lives.

Other than our graphic appearance, nothing about American Sentinel has changed. Our name, courses and online degree programs remain the same, as do our leadership, student services, financial support options, mission and accreditations. If you haven't seen the new website, take a peek and let us know what you think! For more information click here or email branding@americansentinel.edu with comments, questions or kudos. We'd love to hear what you think!
